
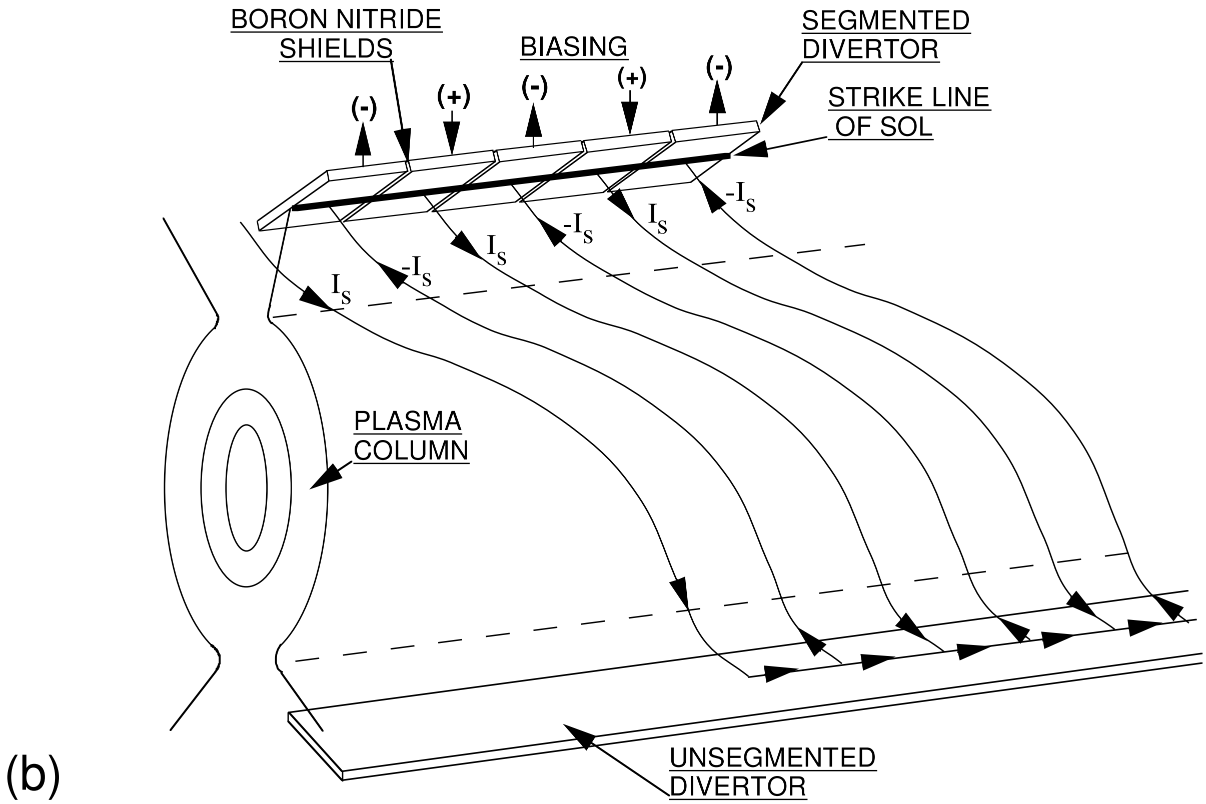

Fig.1b Upper outer divertor toroidally segmented into separate electrodes with bias of opposite polarity applied to each segment.

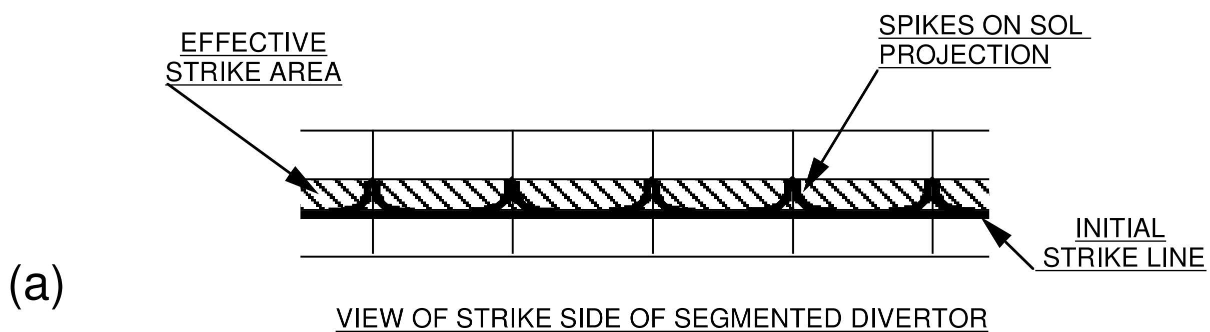

Fig.1a View of strike side of a toroidally segmented divertor for twisting the magnetic field lines in the outer scrape-off layer so as to broaden the effective deposition area of the incident outer strike points.